RESIDENT TREE MAPPING PROJECT

One of the focus points of the Falcon Heights Climate Action Plan is the city's tree cover. The city wants to celebrate the diversity of trees planted throughout the city and give a platform for neighbors to share about their trees.

The city has developed an online map where you can upload your own backyard trees using a convenient survey and view other trees in your neighborhood. The survey asks you to share a few details about the tree, including its species if you happen to know it, and any memories or stories you have about the tree. The survey collects the location of the tree or allows you to pinpoint the location on a map (if not using a location-enabled device). You can also upload a photo of the tree!

Please fill it out to join the Falcon Heights Resident tree map! Your name and information will not be shared, only your beautiful trees!

Pay-by-Mobile Parking Proposal Update

The Falcon Heights City Council has implemented a pay-by-mobile parking program on select city streets during the Minnesota State Fair. The measure assigns approximately 1,000 Falcon Heights parking spots in close proximity to the fairground as parking zones. The program will charge a flat fee of $25 per day for vehicles to park between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. during the 12 days of the Minnesota State Fair. View a map of the parking zones here.

Residents who live on streets designated as a parking zone will receive one free parking pass. Approximately 600 properties are eligible for these passes, which will be delivered by mail starting in July 2025, along with information on how to receive an additional pass for free. Residents can also visit City Hall to request a hardship waiver for two additional passes. Passes cannot be sold or transferred to another property.

The City has partnered with ParkMobile on a one-year agreement for pay-by-mobile parking. The agreement is set to automatically renew for two additional years unless altered or canceled, allowing the City to make adjustments if needed based on the first year of the program. Under the contract, Falcon Heights will receive approximately 80% of parking fees while ParkMobile will receive the remaining 20% to provide signage and administer the program.

More information can be found here.

Falcon Woods: May 28 - Reclamation of the roads starts and should be completed by June 4.

May 22 – Restoration work starts and should be completed by May 23.

Temporary Parking Permits: Blaze Credit Union has allowed the City to use 24 parking stalls in their private parking lot south of the Falcon Woods Neighborhood, from May 28 through June 23. Temporary parking permits will be issued at City Hall on a first come first served basis and maps of available locations will be provided at the time of issuance.

Please note that the weather will be a factor and the schedule will likely change as the season progresses.

NATURE NEWSFLASH <<<

CREeping BELLFLOWER

Creeping bellflower (Campanula rapunculoides) is an invasive garden plant that is becoming a concern for many homeowners in the Twin Cities. It is a perennial flowering plant with purple bell-shaped flowers that grows two to three feet in height. It is highly adaptable and can quickly establish itself in disturbed soil. The plant is considered invasive because its root systems choke out nearby plants and it disperses up to 15,000 seeds at the end of the growing season. Small pieces of roots can re-establish new plants.

Creeping bellflower is considered invasive because it was introduced from Europe and Asia as a garden ornamental. It displaces native species, causing environmental harm to garden and natural ecosystems, and aggressively spreads through wind-blown seeds. Many introduced (or non-native) species are not considered invasive because while they may not originate in Minnesota, they do not cause harm to native ecosystems or human health. Creeping bellflower is also a weed, which is a broad definition that encompasses all plants growing in places humans do not want them to grow.

It is important to be able to distinguish creeping bellflower from native bellflowers and other plants in your garden. It has heart-shaped leaves at the base of the plant, which are hairy and have saw-toothed edges. The stalks can grow up to three feet in height and have purple, bell-shaped flowers with five lobes and small, lance-shaped leaves. The stems produce a milky substance when broken.

Close up of a creeping bellflower. Note the five pointed lobes and bell shape.

Heart-shaped base leaves of the plant.

Creeping bellflower is difficult to eradicate, because you have to dig up the entire root system in order to remove it from your garden. It is recommended to dig 9-12 inches into the soil and remove all root pieces from the affected area. To prevent further spreading of the seeds via wind, remove flowering stalks, bag them, and put them in the garbage. No part of the plant or root system should go in the compost, because reinfestation can occur. You can also try to smother the plants if creeping bellflower has taken over an entire area using newspaper, cardboard, and mulch, or solarizing with black plastic. There is guidance from the University of Minnesota Extension about chemical herbicides that can be used to kill creeping bellflower, although herbicides should be used with caution.

MAKE SURE YOUR HOUSE IS LEAD SAFE

Lead is a toxic metal that is harmful to humans, especially children under 6 and pregnant or breastfeeding adults. The most common source of lead exposure is paint and dust on windows in homes built before 1978. Any amount of lead exposure is dangerous. If you or someone in your household may have been exposed to lead, contact your healthcare provider.

Lead removal grant:

Ramsey County provides grant funding to reduce lead poisoning in children.

How it works:

- An environmental health specialist tests for sources of lead in your home.
- Windows that test positive for lead-based paint are replaced.
- Other lead hazards found in the home are addressed.
- Grant funds cover 80% of the project cost, homeowner is responsible for remaining 20%.
